Matthew 5: The Beatitudes and the New Law

The Sermon on the Mount opens with the famous Beatitudes, a series of blessings that define the character of those who belong to God's kingdom. This section then moves into Jesus' reinterpretation of the Old Testament Law, highlighting the spirit rather than just the letter of the law.

The Beatitudes: Portraits of Kingdom Citizens

Matthew 5:3-12 presents eight Beatitudes, each offering a paradoxically blessed state. Jesus doesn't praise the conventionally successful or powerful; instead, he blesses the humble, the mournful, the meek, the hungry, the merciful, the pure, the peacemakers, and the persecuted.

1. Blessed are the poor in spirit, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.

(Matthew 5:3) - This speaks to a deep awareness of our spiritual emptiness and our utter dependence on God. It's about humility and recognizing that our true wealth is not material but spiritual.

2. Blessed are those who mourn, for they will be comforted. (Matthew

5:4) - This isn't about self-pity, but a profound sorrow over sin and suffering in the world, leading to a longing for God's intervention and comfort.

3. Blessed are the meek, for they will inherit the earth. (Matthew 5:5) -

Meekness is often misunderstood as weakness. In reality, it's strength under control, a humble disposition that doesn't demand its own way but trusts in God's timing and power.

4. Blessed are those who hunger and thirst for righteousness, for they will be filled. (Matthew 5:6) - This describes an intense, unquenchable desire for God's justice and character to be lived out in our lives and in the world.

5. Blessed are the merciful, for they will be shown mercy. (Matthew 5:7)

- Reflecting God's own mercy, this calls us to extend compassion and forgiveness to others, knowing that we ourselves are in need of mercy.

6. Blessed are the pure in heart, for they will see God. (Matthew 5:8) -

This emphasizes the importance of inner purity, a sincere and undivided devotion to God, free from hypocrisy and corrupting motives.

7. Blessed are the peacemakers, for they will be called children of God.

(Matthew 5:9) - This isn't just about avoiding conflict, but actively working to reconcile broken relationships and bring peace where there is discord, mirroring God's desire for harmony.

8. Blessed are those who are persecuted because of righteousness, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven. (Matthew 5:10) - This acknowledges the reality that living for God will often bring opposition from the world, yet assures ultimate reward and belonging.

Reflection Questions for the Beatitudes:

1. Which Beatitude resonates most with you right now? Why?
2. In what areas of your life do you need to cultivate more of the qualities described in the Beatitudes?
3. How does the world's definition of "blessed" differ from Jesus' definition?

Jesus and the Law: A Higher Standard

Following the Beatitudes, Jesus addresses the Mosaic Law, proclaiming, "Do not think that I have come to abolish the Law or the Prophets; I have not come to abolish them but to fulfill them" (Matthew 5:17). He then systematically unpacks six key commandments, demonstrating that true obedience goes beyond outward actions to encompass inner attitudes and motivations.

1. Anger and Murder: Jesus equates murder with harboring anger towards a brother (Matthew 5:21-26). This highlights the destructive power of hate and the need for reconciliation.
2. Lust and Adultery: He extends the prohibition of adultery to include lustful glances, emphasizing the sinfulness of impure thoughts (Matthew 5:27-30).
3. Divorce: Jesus addresses divorce, reaffirming God's original design for marriage and setting a high standard for marital faithfulness (Matthew 5:31-32).
4. Oaths: He teaches against casual or manipulative use of oaths, urging straightforward honesty and integrity in our speech (Matthew 5:33-37).
5. Retaliation ("An Eye for an Eye"): Jesus radically challenges the principle of retaliation, urging followers to turn the other cheek and go the extra mile, breaking cycles of vengeance (Matthew 5:38-42).
6. Love for Enemies: Perhaps the most counter-cultural teaching, Jesus commands his followers to love their enemies and pray for those who persecute them, demonstrating God's impartial love (Matthew 5:43-48).

This section is often referred to as the "antitheses," as Jesus contrasts common interpretations of the Law with his own more profound understanding. This is crucial for any Sermon on the Mount Bible study.

Reflection Questions on the Law:

1. How does Jesus' interpretation of the Law challenge your understanding of righteousness?
2. In what situations do you find it hardest to apply Jesus' teachings on non-retaliation and loving your enemies?
3. What does it mean to "fulfill" the Law, as Jesus states?

Matthew 6: Practices of Righteousness – A Secret Life with God

Matthew chapter 6 shifts focus to the personal practices of discipleship: giving, prayer, and fasting. Jesus emphasizes that these acts of devotion should be done with the right motivation – to please God, not to gain recognition from others.

Giving Generously, Not for Applause

Jesus begins by addressing almsgiving, urging followers to be discreet and not to "announce it with trumpets" (Matthew 6:2-4). The reward for public acts is fleeting human praise; the reward for secret acts is from God. This is a fundamental aspect of discipleship study.

Prayer: Connecting with Your Heavenly Father

Prayer is presented as a vital communion with God. Jesus provides the Lord's Prayer as a model, not just a rote recitation, but a framework for approaching God with reverence, acknowledging His sovereignty, and petitioning for His will, provision, forgiveness, and protection (Matthew 6:5-15). He also warns against "babbling like pagans" and encourages sincerity and intimacy in prayer.

Fasting: Humility Before God

Fasting, when practiced, should be a private act of devotion, not a public display to impress others. Jesus' instruction is to "anoint your head and wash your face, so that your fasting may not be seen by others but by your Father who is in secret" (Matthew 6:17-18).

Treasures and Priorities

Jesus then pivots to the importance of our "treasures." He contrasts earthly treasures, which are subject to decay and theft, with heavenly treasures, which are eternal (Matthew 6:19-21). This leads to the powerful statement: "No one can serve two masters... You cannot serve both God and money" (Matthew 6:24). Our priorities reveal who we truly serve.

Do Not Worry

The section on worry is incredibly relevant. Jesus contrasts the anxiety of the world with the trust of a disciple. He points to the birds of the air and the lilies of the field as examples of God's provision, urging followers to "seek first his kingdom and his righteousness, and all these things will be added to you" (Matthew 6:25-34). This is a cornerstone of any Sermon on the Mount devotional.

Reflection Questions on Practices:

1. When you give, pray, or fast, what is your primary motivation?
2. How can you make your prayer life more intimate and less ritualistic?
3. What are your "treasures" on earth, and how do they affect your focus on heavenly things?

4. How does the command "Do not worry" challenge your current anxieties?

Matthew 7: Judgment, Asking, and Building on the Rock

The final chapter of the Sermon on the Mount addresses crucial aspects of our relationships with others and our commitment to living out Jesus' teachings.

Judging Others

Jesus warns against hypocritical judgment. He states, "Do not judge, or you too will be judged. For in the same way you judge others, you will be judged, and with the measure you use, it will be measured out to you" (Matthew 7:1-5). The emphasis is on self-examination and recognizing our own faults before pointing out the faults of others. This means discerning, not condemning.

The Golden Rule

This profound principle, "So in everything, do to others what you would have them do to you" (Matthew 7:12), serves as a summary of the Law and the Prophets. It calls for empathy and putting ourselves in another's shoes.

The Narrow and Wide Gates

Jesus contrasts two paths: the wide gate and broad road that leads to destruction, and the narrow gate and difficult path that leads to life. This highlights the reality that following Jesus will not always be easy or popular, but it is the only path to true life (Matthew 7:13-14).

False Prophets and True Disciples

Jesus warns against deception from false prophets who may appear outwardly spiritual but whose lives and teachings do not align with God's truth. He states, "By their fruits you will recognize them" (Matthew 7:15-20). True discipleship is evidenced by obedience and a life that bears good fruit.

Hearing and Doing

The sermon culminates with a powerful parable about two builders. One builds his house on sand, and it collapses in the storm. The other builds his house on rock, and it stands firm. Jesus declares, "Everyone then who hears these words of mine and does them is like a wise builder who built his house on rock" (Matthew 7:24-27). This is the ultimate call to action: hearing is not enough; we must do.

Reflection Questions on Judgment and Doing:

1. How do you discern between judging hypocritically and making righteous judgments?
2. How can you apply the Golden Rule more consistently in your daily interactions?
3. What are the "fruits" that evidence true discipleship in your life?
4. What steps can you take to ensure you are not just a "hearer of the word, but a doer" (James 1:22)?

He doesn't abolish the Law but fulfills it, revealing its deeper meaning and intent. He moves beyond outward actions to the inner disposition of the heart, teaching that anger is akin to murder, lust is akin to adultery, and that we should go the extra mile, love our enemies, and pray for those who persecute us.
